Experiences

"One highlight was attending (and volunteering at) the Computers, Privacy and Data Protection (CPDP) in Brussels for the very first time. Having previously attended more traditional law conferences, I wasn't quite prepared for what CPDP actually is: the legal discussions were certainly there (and they were fascinating), but the conference also embraces art exhibitions, practical workshops, and Culture Club sessions featuring book launches and documentary screenings. As an (amateur) ballerina, I was reminded of something I hold dear: the power of art to communicate complex ideas and raise awareness."

"I started working in data protection in early 2020, which means I've spent a loooong time with very few chances to go to in-person events. Last week I finally made it to Computers, Privacy and Data Protection for the first time, and honestly, I already hope to be back next year."

"Attending the Computers, Privacy and Data Protection (CPDP) conference last week was a reminder of why conversations around data protection are so important. The panels were sharp and packed with perspectives that challenged the obvious narratives. A great mix of technical depth and genuine curiosity in the room."

A venue with character and convenience

CPDP 2027 will return to Maison de la Poste at Tour & Taxis—our third edition in this exceptional venue. A striking example of Brussels' reimagined industrial heritage, the former post office now offers a warm, elegant setting that fosters exchange and inspiration.

Spacious and accessible, Maison de la Poste is ideally suited for an event of CPDP's scale, ensuring the smooth navigation of 1,200 participants between panels, workshops, and networking spaces across its multiple rooms and stages.

Located just minutes from the city centre, the amazing Tour & Taxi site is well connected via public transport, shuttles to Brussels-North station and nearby hotels. It hosts a charming food court and underground parking with 92 EV charging points.

Still empty now – but eagerly waiting for the CPDP community.

A group of people are gathered outdoors in front of a red brick building with large windows. In the foreground, there are green tree branches with leaves. A group of people, including a man in a dark suit, a woman in a white top, and a man in a grey sweater, are engaged in conversation. Other people are visible in the background, some wearing backpacks. The scene is bright and sunny.
